

FINALES COUPE DU MONDE FEI JUMPING ET DRESSAGE 2018

11-15 AVRIL
ACCORHOTELS ARENA

Paris, 11 April 2018 - Press Release

PARTY TIME IN PARIS! THE FRENCH CERTAINLY KNOW HOW TO PUT ON A SHOW...

On Sunday 15 April, between the two rounds of the Longines FEI World Cup Show Jumping Final, the AccorHotels Arena in Paris will look like a cabaret hall as it welcomes the dancers of the Paradis Latin. Due to the unavailability of the horses of the Garde Républicaine, the festive performing-arts programme of the weekend has been updated.

This weekend, the AccorHotels Arena is hosting the world's top riders for the Longines FEI Show-Jumping and FEI Dressage World Cup Finals, and will be showcasing typical French know-how between the competition classes by inviting some of its most renowned international ambassadors: the marching band and symphony orchestra of the Garde Républicaine, the choir of the French Army, the Cadre Noir de Saumur, and Alizée Froment and Nicolas Andréani. moreover, on Sunday, since the event is taking place in the French capital, the musicians, singers and riders will be joined by the dancers of Paradis Latin cabaret between the two rounds of the Show-jumping Final. The international spectators at the AccorHotels Arena will be treated to an amazing French cancan ahead of the second round of competition, which will designate the winner of the Longines FEI Show-Jumping World Cup.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening, the "Prestige" show will highlight French equestrian tradition, with the Cadre Noir de Saumur. Two of the school's rider will be performing a never-before-attempted pas de trois with Alizée Froment, former coach of the French Ponies dressage team, who is also an international dressage Grand Prix rider and international performing-arts rider. As another reference to France and Paris, the French rider Nicolas Andréani, a three-time winner of the FEI World Cup Vaulting Final, who now works in equestrian performing-arts shows, will be performing Le Mime Marceau on horseback, a routine for which he is famous around the world.

Welcome to Paris! The weekend at the AccorHotels Arena promises to be full of fun and music.
